

José Mateos Bustamante

José Mateos Bustamante is an Assistant Professor in University of Valladolid, in Spain, where he got his PhD in criminal law about the figure of treachery. He has also completed his formation in other spanish and foreign universities such as Pompeu Fabra University, University of Barcelona and London School of Economics. His main body of work is about personal crimes (homicide, injuries, etc), artificial intelligence in criminal law and international humanitarian law. He has also maintained a professional career as a lawyer for over a decade.

